JOHN P. HILLHOUSE MEETS INSTANT DEATH

WAS ELECTROCUTED AT SUBSTATION ON TRIBBLE STREET

FUNERAL TODAY

Will be Held at Residence Today at 6 O'clock—Interment in Greenville Friday.

Mr. John P. Hillhouse, eldest child of Mrs. Lila Hillhouse of 722 Elizabeth street, was instantly killed yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in the new switch house of the Southern Public Utilities company at the substation on Tribble street when several thousand volts of electricity passed through his body. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 6 o'clock at the residence on Elizabeth street conducted by Rev. E. Witherspoon Dodge. The remains will be taken to Greenville on the 8:30 car Friday morning and interment will be made in the cemetery there.

Mr. Hillhouse was 21 years of age and a junior at the Georgia school of Technology. During the summer months he was employed by the Southern Public Utilities company and this summer he had been installing the equipment in the new switch house, which he would have completed within the next two weeks. This work was rather complicated, but he did it like an expert, and had received many compliments on the knowledge and the manner in which he went about doing this work.

Yesterday morning Mr. Hillhouse was putting in the new telephone switches into the house which came from the Gregg Shoals and Portman plants, pumping station and other stations of the company. These switches were being connected in the top of the station and he was working near the roof on a scaffold made of a thick plank. While standing on this scaffold his right leg accidentally came into contact with one of the four large bus-bar beams which extend lengthwise across the switch station and each of which carry 10,500 volts. Mr. Hillhouse either had his hand on the galvanized iron side of the building or on an iron rod which contained a telephone wire. In this way the circuit to the ground was complete.

A connection between any two of the brass bus-bars carry a voltage of 10,500 volts. Superintendent Long stated yesterday that he did not know what the voltage was from a ground connection but that it was not as much as the other connection.

At first Mr. Hillhouse remained conscious and yelled, "Cut it off," to his younger brother, Edward, and Mr. C. H. Burkett, Jr., who were on the floor. Mr. Burkett ran over to the side of the building and threw off the three switches which control the current.

Looking up Mr. Burkett saw that Mr. Hillhouse's body had relaxed and that his head had fallen against the side of the building. Mr. Burkett rushed up the ladder and after bringing the body down began applying the artificial respiration, which all employes of the company know how to do. Mr. Burkett had a negro go and bring a copy of the rules so that he might follow them closely and do everything possible to save the young man's life.

Superintendent Long was at the young man's side in a few seconds and with others kept applying the artificial respiration treatment. Doctors were summoned and in a few minutes Drs. J. Louis Gray, H. H. Harris and W. F. Ashmore were on the scene. They continued the respiration treatment and after a little it seemed that their efforts would be successful. The young man responded and made two natural gasps for breath. The treatment was kept up until 1 o'clock when the doctors announced that it was impossible to restore life. There were only a few burns on the man's body.

Mr. A. M. McPhall, uncle of the young man, was summoned and in company with Edward Hillhouse went to the young man's home to break the news to his mother. Her husband, Mr. J. P. Hillhouse, also met a tragic death, being killed several years ago at Abbeville in the yards of the Southern railway.

The news of this fatal accident spread quickly over the entire city yesterday and was deeply deplored by everyone. Mr. Hillhouse was a young man with an exceedingly bright future and at school had won many honors, having been appointed campus electrician at his college this next session, which would have paid him enough for all expenses during the term.

The young man attended school in the high school here and for one year went to the Frazer academy. For the past two years he has been a student at Georgia Tech. For the past five years he has worked for the Utilities company during the summer and all along had shown marked ability along electrical lines. The work nearing completion under his direction at the company's substation goes to prove that he had a wonderful knowledge of electricity and its fixtures.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FARMERS MEETINGS

FOUR BIG DAYS ARE PLANNED FOR COMING WEEK

LIEUT. GOV. BETHEA

Will be Among Speakers on Thursday at Pat Major's—Big Day at Clemson College.

As announced a few days ago in The Intelligencer there will be three farmers' chautauques in the county next week, all promising to be among the largest gatherings ever held around Anderson.

The first will be held at Belton on Wednesday, August 18, and will attract large crowds. Several speeches will be made and Miss Garlington will give a canning demonstration.

The second will be at Mr. Pat Major's on Thursday, August 19, and doubtless this will be one of the biggest meetings of the summer. Mrs. Major has been untiring in her efforts with the Woman's club there this year and she and Mr. Major have been generous enough to allow the meeting to be held on the lawn in front of their house. A barbecue dinner will be served, and an attractive program has been arranged. This day will in reality be a farmers' chautauque and all who possibly can ought to attend. Lieut. Gov. Bethea is among the speakers of the day.

On Friday, August 20, will be another Anderson county day at Clemson College. A day of this kind was held during the month of July and proved very beneficial to all of those who attended. The day this month will be especially instructive and all farmers in the county are urged to be present.

On Saturday, August 21, there will be a meeting at White Plains and this like the others, will be given over to speech making and demonstrations. This also will be a very instructive day and a cordial invitation is extended to all to attend.

Programs for the meetings have been announced as follows:

Belton Farmers' Meeting.
10:00 to 10:30—Dairying and home handling of milk—Prof. D. W. Watkins.

10:30 to 11:00—Home gardening and horticulture—Prof. C. F. Niven.
11:00 to 11:30—Live stock and pastures—Prof. J. O. Williams.
11:30 to 12:00—Soil building and crops—S. M. Byars.

12:00 to 1:00—Home demonstration work for the women—Miss Janie Garlington.

There will be a ball game between Belton and a visiting team at 4:00.

Hammond's School Meeting.

10:00 to 11:00—Address by Lieut. Gov. A. J. Bethea.
11:00 to 12:00—Address by W. W. Long, State Agent and Director of Extension work.

12:00 to 1:40—Dinner.
1:40 to 2:20—Dairying and the handling of the home cow—Prof. J. M. Burgess.

2:20 to 3:00—Poultry raising—W. P. Stewart, Dist. Agt.
3:30 to 4:00—Home demonstration work for women—Miss Janie Garlington.

White Plains Meeting.

10:00 to 11:00—Address, W. H. Barton, Ass't State Agent.
11:00 to 12:00—Dairying and cream routes—W. W. Fitzpatrick, dairy agent U. S. department agriculture.

12:00 to 1:30—Dinner.
1:30 to 2:30—Home demonstration work for women—Miss Janie Garlington.

2:30 to 3:00—Soil building and crops—S. M. Byars.

MANY PEOPLE TOOK NORTHERN JOURNEY

Annual Excursion to Norfolk, Washington and New York Well Patronized.

The annual excursion yesterday to Norfolk, Washington and New York over the Southern was taken advantage of by a great many people from this section. The train left at 3:25 o'clock and a number of reservations were made.

Among those making reservations were: Messrs. Willie Marshall, "Boots" Sullivan, Calvin Harris, W. D. Garrison, S. M. Wolfe, R. W. Tribble, W. S. Breazeale, T. LaFoy, D. L. Reid, Misses Cochran, Lella Moseley, Lois Wilson, Messrs. H. King, C. F. Ross, E. W. Brown, S. Elrod, B. B. Earle, D. L. O. Moore, Ben Aull, Dr. C. F. Ross.

Besides the above there were a number of others who took the trip.

Mr. Orr Returned.
Mr. H. A. Orr, manager of the Anderson branch of the Southern Public Utilities company, returned yesterday afternoon from New York and Baltimore where he had been spending the past several days.

F. M. Burnett to Speak.
Fred. M. Burnett, the busy and deservedly popular treasurer of Anderson College, a religious worker and speaker of exceptional force, is to speak at the Baptist church at Pendleton next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Everybody is invited to this service.
